GAIO – Release of the South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council’s Advice

Today the South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council’s Advice to the Government of Alberta for the South Saskatchewan Region was released. It is important to note that this is advice from the advisory council; it is not the government’s draft plan.

You can find the advice document online at www.landuse.alberta.ca

In late April, there will be a workbook available on this site so you can provide feedback on the council’s advice. Consultation sessions on the advisory council’s advice are planned for the fall. We will keep you informed regarding the dates the workbook will be available and when the consultations will begin.

The council’s advice and the feedback from these consultations will be considered as government develops the draft regional plan. Albertans will have another opportunity to provide feedback when the draft regional plan is released.

I encourage you to read the council’s advice and then fill out the workbook once it is available.
